Why do we pray?

- Growing in relationship with God.

"Prayer is both conversation and encounter with God...We must know the awe of praising his glory, the intimacy of finding his grace, and the struggle of asking his help, all of which can lead us to know the spiritual reality of his presence. Prayer, then, is both awe and intimacy, struggle and reality."

"God wants us to pray because prayer expresses our trust in God and is a means whereby our trust in him can increase...God as our Creator delights in being trusted by us as his creatures, for an attitude of dependence is most appropriate to the Creator/creature relationship...When we pray, we as persons, in the wholeness of our character, are relating to God as a person, in the wholeness of his character...It is only natural that God would delight in such activity and place much emphasis on it in his relationship with us...Prayer brings us into deeper fellowship with God, and he loves us and delights in our fellowship with him."

“God genuinely responds to our prayers by changing the way he acts in the world...in prayer God allows us as creatures to be involved in activities that are eternally important. When we pray, the work of the kingdom is advanced. In this way, prayer gives us an opportunity to be involved in a significant way in the work of the kingdom and thus gives expression to our greatness as creatures made in God’s image.”

"Any relationship, if it is going to grow, needs private space, time together without an agenda, where you can get to know each other. This creates an environment where closeness can happen, where we can begin to understand each other's hearts. You don't create intimacy; you make room for it. This is true whether you are talking about your spouse, your friend, or God. You need space to be together. Efficiency, multitasking, and busyness all kill intimacy. In short, you can't get to know God on the fly."

he will draw near to you.”
